A LITTLE ABOUT ME

Hello! Thank you so much for taking a closer look at my work, I hope you like what you have seen so far. I wanted to introduce myself so you know who your chatting to at the other end of the emails. I have been working as a wedding photographer for almost 5 years now and I have loved every minute! I always feel so honoured when a couple choose me, not only to photograph but also share, one of the most important days of their lives.

Here are a few random facts about me...

I have a super cute dog called Bonnie, we rescued her at just 5 months old
My lovely Fiance, Mike, is an awesome cook so I eat very well (morning noon and night people)

I love food, any food, but my favourite is asian dishes YUM!

I actually studied textile design at university so have a very creative background. I love buying new artwork (even if I have no space left on the walls for it all)

I love anything old or antique, when something has a story or looks used it is so much more interesting to me.

I am definitely partial to a glass of red wine.

Most importantly though, I love taking photographs!!

MY STYLE

Its important for couples to finds a photographer they feel comfortable with so I always recommend meeting face to face, its a great opportunity to look through examples of my work and more importantly to find out about your wedding.

I often describe myself as a "documentary photographer" which put simply means I love using natural light in an unstructured way, which not only creates beautifully soft images but keeps every wedding uncomplicated and relaxed. This approach lets me photograph real moments and real emotion.

The most important part of my job is to capture the images that portray you and your loved one as naturally as possible, telling the story of your wedding day and the individual personalities within it. I understand that having your photo taken can sometimes feel daunting, which is why I work in such a natural way. I don't do any forced posing and definitely none of that 'look at the camera' stuff. I do offer a little direction during couple shots so you feel comfortable, I create a situation and then let things unfold infront of the camera. I want the moments I capture to happen organically.
